FECHA:

A large grid for handwriting practice, divided into four horizontal sections:

- Section 1: A row of ten semi-circles. The first four have arrows indicating a counter-clockwise stroke direction. Below the first four are blue dots marking the starting points.
- Section 2: A continuous wavy line pattern consisting of a series of connected semi-circles.
- Section 3: A row of six heart-like shapes, each formed by two semi-circles joined at the top. The first one has a blue dot at its top center.
- Section 4: A row of three crosses. The first two have blue dots at their top and bottom centers.
